

Delaire in Stallebosch

Delaire, Stallebosch. The gorgeously situated wine farm/hotel of diamond magnate Laurence Graff has two restaurants. "The main one provides spectacular views of the Simonsberg mountains to go with lunch on the terrace, described as 'bistro chic' and featuring estate-grown ingredients. The farmed kabeljou (Dutch for cod) is delicious. However, I would recommend dinner at the property's small, discreet Asian restaurant Indochine, where a five-course chef's selection includes delicious tuna tataki and Thai tom yum khaa for around £35 without wine."

Join us for a stay at Delaire Graff Estate, where unsurpassed levels of luxury and service create the ultimate escape. With ten luxury lodges that overlook the Stellenbosch Valley and sweeping views of our wine estate, welcome to our South African home, a place of peaceful sanctuary.

The Delaire Graff Lodges and Spa are currently undergoing expansive renovations and additions to our existing lodges. The Owners Lodge and Luxury Lodges may experience some disturbances during this period. This work will continue until the second quarter of 2018. We apologise in advance for any inconvenience caused and look forward to sharing our new offering with you.

A world-class art destination in the Stellenbosch Valley, Delaire Graff Estate offers a rare chance for art aficionados to view some of Laurence Graff's personal art collection in an outstanding setting. Frequently named one of the world's top art collectors, Laurence Graff's collection at the Estate is a carefully curated showcase of some of South Africa's finest contemporary artists.

A botanical paradise in our dramatic mountain setting, discover acres of tranquil colour planted to reflect the changing seasons, spectacularly in bloom every day of the year. Flora and fauna play a very special role here on the Estate as an incredible living backdrop for our art and sculpture – a fragrant, peaceful garden retreat.
